

THE RULES OF IMAGINATION...

(You didn't know there was any, did ya?)

I've started a blog novel, but I don't want to do this thing alone!

I figure the more heads in this thing the better.

So...

There are 5 rules for posting:

- 1) You must continue the story where it was left off in the last post, although where you take it from there is up to you (i.e. Direct continuation, flashback, etc.).
- 2) If the most recent post (regardless of author) ends with "to be continued..." or "TBC..." (and is usually a very short post), then refrain from posting until that post is finished.
- 3) End your post with "to be continued..." or "TBC..." if it is still in the works (i.e. you get interrupted during writing, etc.).
- 4) If you have an idea but do not want it to go public right away, simply save it as a draft for later revision and editing.
- 5) This should be a given, but no racist remarks, profanity, etc. in writing unless you think it is absolutely necessary, in which case you can consult the leader of this project (The StoryTeller) for proper permissions.
- 6) Finally, if you do not follow these rules, a team of highly-skilled hackers will post your most embarrassing baby pictures all over the Internet. LOL

Where this blog novel will go, nobody knows. But let's make it happen!
